THE REAL PURPOSE OF EDUCATION

what's the first thing that comes to your mind when you think about education?

if you're like most parents its student loans but we'll skip that for now,so what do you think about it,is the educational system? Schools? Universities? is it family education? is it manners? Or perhaps you haven't taken the time to contemplate about this yet. The importance of education is far beyond any simplistic explanation, this is why today we'll have a look at the real purpose of Education, and how this information is going to benefit you for the rest of your life.

but before we do any of that let me introduce my self who has more potentially change your life for the better, My name is Muhammad Akbar Hafiluddin, I’m from Budi Utomo vocational High School i had a friend, his name is Akyas he is a well-educated individual. Overall he has a decent living situation, he finished his postgraduate studies with a good grade. he has a good job, a nice car, he goes to the gym regularly, and he enjoys going out with his mates. most people would define Akyas as a polite person, a very well-mannered and smart individual, on the surface it might seem like he's got it all figured out, yet Akyas feels like he lacks something, he feels like after all the hard work he put in, he isn't in the place he wanted to be, he feels empty on the inside, and because of that he is unhappy, Akyas parents always told him to study well in school, and to get good grades because that will help him get a good job, and then he'll have a peaceful life. They assume that a good education would make him happy, so in their case “education” was necessary, only because they thought that it would help Akyas live in the kind of life he wanted.

you see this is how most families and individuals think, they value education because they understand it is important, but what is education really? what is its purpose? what is this thing that people value so much, is education really a tool that helps you get a good job after you graduate? Or just the debt that drags you down for years after? perhaps you should dig deeper Akyas and his family thought that education means to get good grades and have good manners, however real education is beyond earning degrees, and it is beyond any systematic instruction.

The real purpose of education is to elevate your consciousness, the real purpose of education is to evolve yourself, education is meant to help you reach a higher state of being. Assuming that education is important, only because that can help you get a good job after you graduate is dangerous! If you see things that way, you just limit yourself and why go over your debt limit for that? education is crucial! because it is the only way you can develop a holistic understanding of the world. and yes that will make you happier, as a human being we should always be involved in social development, it must be.

Social development is the development of social and emotional skills across the lifespan with particular attention to childhood, adolescence and the interaction with school and education.

Healthy social development allows us to form positive relationships with family, friends, teachers, and other people in our lives. Social development involves learning the values, knowledge, and skills of social interaction. For example, people will learn communication and interaction with teachers, other people, and friends in a school environment. Social and emotional skills are passed on to children directly by those who care for and teach them, as well as indirectly through social relationships within the family or with friends. Also, through children's participation in the culture around them and after-school clubs or after-school sports.

Education is one of the most important means to improve personal social skills. Education, directly and indirectly, gives young people the opportunity to develop their social skills at school or in after-school clubs, people interact with other people, building their relationships with friends, teachers and other students of different ages and cultures, and improving their skills in different environmental settings

Ladies and Gentlemen, We can easily gain knowledge anywhere and anytime. Our education, our morality, and our competence is depend of ourselves. Remembering the importance of education, let's make the best use of our time, to reach the best future of our life.

Thanks for your great attention, my name is Muhammad Akbar Hafiluddin, the last and the beautiful words ever i say...
